A Monthly Webinar Series

The Bar Ilan Center for Energy and Sustainability is launching a monthly Webinar Series on a broad range of topics related to energy and sustainability. The series aims to promote international research and development in the global field of energy by focusing on pedagogical and interdisciplinary lectures. This cross-disciplinary webinar series is an excellent opportunity for graduate students and faculty members across Israel to get an exciting overview of specific research topics related to energy and sustainability and might open new directions for collaborations in future research. The monthly 45 minutes webinar talks will be followed by Q&A sessions where all the participants can ask questions to the speaker.
